

iProtection™

FORM

Inspired by the device itself, the latest Defender Series case surrounds the new iPad's fusion of aluminum and glass in a custom enclosure. Our engineers and industrial designers carefully considered all aspects of the device to accommodate the ergonomics and natural use of every feature and function. Styling and textures in combination with high quality materials create the most solid protective solution.

FIT

A unique three-layer combination fits precisely around the new iPad to undoubtedly protect. A built-in screen protector maintains full touch functionality while guarding against scratches and scuffs; two polycarbonate pieces snap together and a silicone outer layer installs easily over the hard shell, fitting snugly in place. Port covers protect from dust and debris while allowing access for headphone jack and connectors.

FUNCTION

The OtterBox Defender Series is synonymous with rugged protection and provides uninhibited use of the device when installed. A shield stand acts as a protective cover when on the front or back and does double duty as a stand. The stand has a natural typing angle for getting work done and accommodates viewing video and applications in either portrait or landscape mode. Two magnets in the shield initiate device sleep mode when on and awaken the device when removed, conserving battery power. Highly portable, this case provides superior protection when and where it's needed.
